DAVID PIERCE

Humble High School, Class of 1971

David Pierce is a proud 1971 graduate of Humble High School. As a life-long resident of Humble, his family history goes back six generations in our Humble community. This legacy also includes his grandfather, Albert Aaron Pierce, who served as the Principal of Humble High School from 1942 to 1946.

After high school, David continued his education journey at Texas A&M University in the College of Engineering Technology and Industrial Distribution and he holds a BS in Industrial Distribution. While at Texas A&M University, David served as the Inspector General for the First Brigade within the Corps of Cadets.

David founded Humble Industries, Inc in 1981 in Humble, Texas. Forty-four years later, this successful business provides products for energy oil and gas, water wells, tank trucks, mining, transportation and more.

David has also devoted the past 25 years to public service with the Humble City Council for 13 terms as Mayor Pro Tem and the Houston-Galveston Council for four years. A few of the projects he has been most proud of include building the City of Humble Civic Center and Arena, Harris County Library, City of Humble Uptown Park and creating both the annual Christmas Parade and the Beautification Committee. David has also displayed leadership through the giving of his time to community organizations in past president positions such as for the Humble High School Alumni Association, Humble Optimist Club, the Humble Noon Lions Club and the entertainment captain for the Humble Rodeo and BBQ. David is a life-long member of Humble First Methodist Church.

David and his wife, Diane, have three children, two of whom also graduated from Humble High School, and five grandchildren. He is also a licensed pilot and in his free time enjoys playing music and camping with the family.
